iMNC2020

Online exhibitor information

The International MicroNanoConference 2020 brings together science and industry to showcase how micro- and nanotechnology help addressing our societal challenges: Nano4Society.

Like every year, we will focus on four sub-themes:

- Health & Life science
- Agro & Food
- Sustainability & Energy
- Manufacturing & Engineering

In this special year, with restrictions on traveling and bringing large groups of people together, we have chosen for a new style event that will be fully on-line. Together with the Programme Committee, we are working on a new format, enabling the networking environment past conferences were praised for. In the coming months, we will reveal more details of this format.

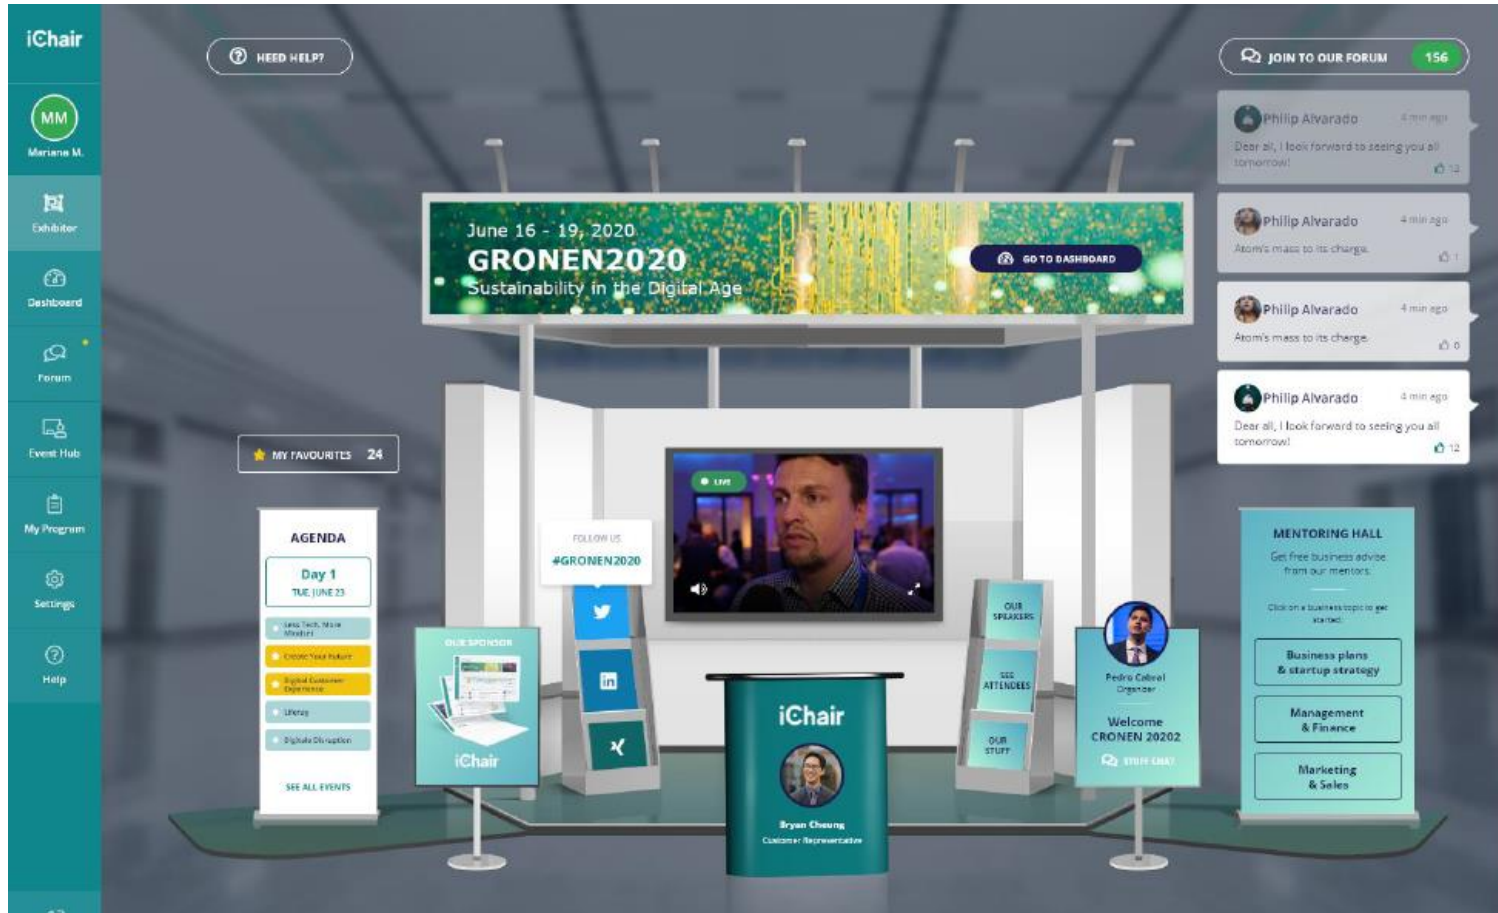

Going online will allow us to reach out to MinacNed members and non-members who would normally not travel to our traditional face-to-face event: A new opportunity for networking!

On behalf of the organization,
Martijn Fransen, Chair of the organization committee
